THE WEEKLY OREGONIAN.

THE WEEKLY OREGONIAN is published this morning It contains the latest telegraphic news from the East and California in detail, a selection of the best articles published in the DAILY OREGONIAN and the corrected Market Reports, and a Weekly Review of the same.

The WEEKLY OREGONIAN contains thirty-six columns of reading matter being far greater than that published in any other journal in the State, and we aim to make it the most reliable newspaper, especially in regard to that which pertains to Oregon interests

Single copies, 12½ cents $3 per annum mailed to any part of the United States

The Last Albany Convention.

We have published the names of the unfortunate candidates, and below we give the officers of what called itself "a Democratic" gathering, with the resolutions, which were adopted. It will be observed that the moon eyed searchers after political dogmas went back to the last century in Virginia and Kentucky to find a "starter," and hunted the "ancient landmarks of the Democracy," which they utterly failed to discover. We shall have something more to say hereafter of these precious specimens of political principles They are the fair exposition of doctrines of a party without honesty or patriotism, and seeking only for a skilful mode of imposing upon the people. They show that crafty politicians met at Albany, who had no patriotism, or if they had any, thought it was of such a poor quality that it was not well to say anything about it John Whiteaker presided, and N. T Caton Secretaried,—A. J Babb helped Caton. The resolutions, written as we are informed by Judge Wait, who can say more profound absurdity in a given number of words, than any other sensible man, we have in the State, are as follows

Resolved, 1st That we renew our faith in, and devotion to, the Virginia and Kentucky resolutions of 1798–9, and the ancient landmarks of the Democracy which for more than half a century carried our country safely and prosperously, under all circumstances and in all emergencies

2d That we are in favor of the Union and the Constitution as our patriot fathers made them, and that we are in favor of allowing the revolted States to return to their allegiance under that Constitution, with all the rights which that sacred instrument secures to them

3d That while we condemn the action of those States which have placed themselves in rebellion against the Government, we also condemn and denounce that usurpation of tyrannical authority which prohibits the return of those States to the Union until they shall have made their Constitutions conform, not to the will of their respective people, but to suit the anti slavery views of President Lincoln and his party

4th That we are opposed to all violations either of the Constitution, or of the laws enacted in accordance therewith, and opposed to usurpation, tyranny, fraud, extravagance, and in favor of the maintenance inviolate, of every right of every citizen.

5th That the Constitution is the supreme and all controlling law which binds together the States in Union, and the severance of that cord for the abolition of slavery is inexpedient, unjustifiable, revolutionary and dangerous and demands the unqualified condemnation of all good men

6th That we would hail with joy a peace secured upon the principles of the Crittenden Compromise or upon any honorable basis at the earliest practicable moment, and we condemn all attempts to discourage and prevent an amicable settlement of our national difficulties as evincing unworthy partisan hate and malice, and as clearly unpatriotic and disunion.

7th That we endorse the sentiment of Senator Douglas that "this government was made on a white basis for the benefit of white men," that we endorse and accept that interpretation of the Constitution made by the Supreme Court, as entirely in accordance with the unbroken precedent of every Administration down to the present, to the effect that negroes are not citizens of the United States

8th That the suspension of the writ of habeas corpus, the arrest of citizens without due process of law, the suppression of free speech and the freedom of the press, is inconsistent with the principles of free government, and is utterly condemned by the Democratic party of this State

9th That we are opposed to all secret political organizations as being subversive of our republican form of government

And it is further

Resolved, By this Convention, that we are really in favor of what the late Abolition State Convention pretended to favor, namely the exemption of miners and mining claims from special taxation and we will use our influence to continue such exemption

A HOPELESS CASE —If Col. Kelly accepts the nomination of his party convention which we hardly believe possible from what we are told of his position, with reference to the great issues before the country—he will necessarily be regarded as the standard bearer of disunion and treason He will get the votes of every man who wishes the rebellion to succeed He cannot expect,—he has no right to ask the support of any loyal citizen He is the candidate of a party, which opposes the Government He cannot ask the people of Oregon to send him to Washington, as the Representative of Union sentiments, for he knows that he is the mouthpiece of a party, which is in sympathy with the South and would rejoice to day to hear that Gen Lee had gained a victory over the Army of the Republic Has he then, or has his party any right to anticipate the endorsement or the approval of this State, pledged as its people are, most decidedly and unmistakably to stand now and for ever by the Union?

THE TRUE POLICY —We are told that some objection is made to an admission made by us yesterday that Col Kelly was a reliable and competent man outside of his politics and that it is asserted by certain persons who want our paper to do and say what they wish and not what is true and wise in the judgment of those responsible for its management that because the Democratic party nominates a candidate he is necessarily a scoundrel and unworthy of decent treatment We do not believe any such thing. If a man's principles are disloyal let him be earnestly opposed if his politics are unworthy of support, defeat him, but as citizens and acquaintances, when respectable men are proposed for office, we claim the right to tell the truth about them even if they are opposed to us Col Kelly has no right to be an opponent of the Government in this day of its agony but if he is we have no right to say anything but the truth about him or his position It is always safe to do right and we intend, while we write for the people to do so, and if any one thinks that capital can be made by falsehood and misrepresentation it shall be his work not ours We despise utterly, heartily and without qualification the politics of the party which has made Col Kelly its representative We shall fight such doctrines with all our energy but while doing so, we shall not, for we ought not to sacrifice truth It is said that it has been the custom in Oregon to deride and abuse political opponents —that if there is not such abuse there may be a cause to suspect fidelity. If this has been so, it is time it was stopped; we ought to have sense enough to oppose men upon principle, and not because we are bitter and ill-natured in our personal relations

In fine, for we have no time to extend our views, we know that the Union party will gain immense strength by being just as well as generous—we know that those who imagine that it is good policy to "pitch in" to an opponent because he is so, are mistaken and can learn substantial wisdom from the suggestions of those who are more experienced and more discreet

FEMALE POLITICIANS ON THE STUMP —A short time since, Miss Anna Dickenson addressed a large audience at Brooklyn, on the Union question, and her caustic remarks caused considerable smarting among the godly Peace Democracy hereabouts On Friday evening last, a meeting was called at the Brooklyn Athenaeum, under the auspices of certain men who have had the headache ever since Miss Dickenson's Union thunder first rung in their ears The meeting was not a very large one, but what it lacked in numbers it made up in noise Miss Emma Webb, one of the Webb sisters of theatrical fame, was introduced to the audience as the expounder-ess of the principles of the Peace Democracy Miss Webb said that she had studied politics but could not see that she had profited much by so doing Her "talk" was intended as a reply to Miss D, but she failed in the language and argument, in fact, I don't recollect of ever before listening to a speaker who talked so much and yet said so little Miss D is still ahead, and if the Peace Democracy wish to get even, they must employ a more cogent reasoner for their champion than Miss Webb

The above from an eastern paper suggests to us the idea that it will not be necessary for one candidate for Congress to make any special canvass, we propose to send for Abby Kelly she is as bright as chain lightning, and she will beat the tother Kelly out of sight, on the stump What do our friends say? Shall we beat the gallant Colonel, who killed Peu peu mox mox, with a loquacious petticoat? We can do it, and perhaps it is the cheapest and best way to crush out the base secession which crops out of the platform in there solutions we publish this morning

Every Union man in the State, who desires the success of our cause in the future, should go to work at once to extend the circulation of strong Union newspapers Never was there a time in the history of our country when earnest effort was more imperatively demanded of every true lover of the Union and the Constitution The Presidential election of 1864 will be the most important of our national history Upon the result of it depends the preservation of civil liberty on this continent The administration of the national and State governments is now in the hands of patriots, whose only ambition it is to perpetuate the institutions handed down to us by our Revolutionary fathers. The continuation of our present rulers for another term will dispel all hopes of secession, and lead to the re establishment of fraternal relations in our once happy country And more than this it will be the death knell of slavery The men to power have successfully administered the Government during the past three troubled years of war, and in their hands can be safely trusted the difficult task of healing dissensions and inaugurating the reign of peace If the Union is to be preserved, it must be through the triumph of the Union party To bring about this happy result the Union presses can be and are efficient aid, and hence all loyal men should feel it a duty to further their circulation

WASHINGTON IRVING AND THE EMPRESS EUGENIE —In the "Life and Letters of Washington Irving" just issued, is a letter, in which Irving writes

"Louis Napoleon and Eugenie Montijo, Emperor and Empress of France!—one of whom I have had at my cottage on the Hudson the other whom when a child I have had on my knee at Granada it seems to cap the climax of the strange dramas of which Paris has been the theatre during my lifetime The last I saw of Eugenie Montijo she was one of the reigning belles of Madrid and she and her giddy circle had swept away my charming young friend, the beautiful and accomplished [illegible] into their career of fashionable dissipation Now Eugenie is upon a throne and [illegible] is a voluntary recluse in a convent of one of the most rigorous orders Poor [illegible] Perhaps, however, her fate may ultimately be the happiest of the two 'The storm with her is o'er and she's at rest, but the other is launched from a returnless shore on a dangerous sea infamous for its tremendous ship wrecks'"

A SIXTY FIVE MINUTES SPEECH —Henry Winter Davis made a noted and conclusive reply to a pro slavery member who argued that the Government cannot take the slaves because they are property The subjoined passage from this short speech greatly [illegible] the House

I desire categorically to deny that assumption as a point of law. The Constitution of the United States never recognized a slave as property He is property not by law of the United States but by the laws of the respective States The Constitution of the United States treats him as a person and only as a person Slaves get [illegible] represented Direct tax is required in proportion to numbers and slaves are counted, and the proviso which prohibits the exclusion of emigrants prior to a certain date, authorizes Congress to tax them as persons not exceeding ten dollars They are directed to be surrendered up when they shall have fled from service They are then treated as persons and not as property They are known as property in the laws of the States One gentleman said that the local law of a State can so change the relations between men that it can exempt them from the military service of the United States This places the existence of the United States at the mercy of the subordinate law of the States If they declare that every wife is a [illegible] her husband and every parent his son and daughter the Government is stripped of everybody that can be subjected to military service

The gentleman spoke of robbery Sir the advocates of slavery should seek some other term of reproach Its origin was in robbery, and time and law have stretched it but they have not obliterated its historic origin

SOUTHERN BLUSTER —When it was known that Beauregard was defeated at Shiloh, the old men of Memphis those about fifty years of age, formed themselves into a mammoth cavalry regiment having for its object the total annihilation of the "vandals" under command of Grant To make the organization more terrible in its effects, a certain oath was administered to every man and those who were not willing to subscribe to it in full were denounced as cowards. The oath had been administered to about fifty men, all of whom signed it with a will that indicated that the soil would be bleached with Yankee blood when Judge Brown one of the oldest and most respected citizens arose and objected to the further administration of the oath, till he had been permitted to make a few remarks No man could command more respect among the followers of Jeff Davis than that gentleman The audience was as quiet as a funeral Judge Brown said

"I have been a quiet participator in the actions of this meeting So far the proceedings have been just and proper A large number of men have this evening sworn to meet and slay ten Yankees This is as it should be There now remains in this room about three hundred of my fellow citizens, who, like myself have passed the meridian of life, and their powers of endurance are not equal to those who have already been sworn, I therefore move that the oath be so amended as to require us (I mean those over sixty years of age) to only slay five Yankees For my part, I am willing to slay my five, but more than that number, I don't feel able to prepare for their long homes"

On the receipt of the above speech the meeting adjourned to convene again to discuss the amendment of the Judge Soon after that, the Yankees took Memphis, and the ten to one organization came to a sudden conclusion

HOW SALT LAKE CITY IS COMMANDED —A correspondent of an eastern paper, who has lately visited Salt Lake City thus speaks of the chief city of the Mormons

The Mecca of the Mormons occupies one fourth of the bottom of a huge saucer, the remaining three fourths being at present partly arable land and partly desert The Wasatch Mountains form the sides of a saucer, and with portions of another range encircle the city, shutting it in from the outer world with a wall too high for even the odor of its sanctity to escape over the mountain tops Approaching from the west you cross the Jordan, have the Great Salt Lake to your left and the city spread out in quadrilaterals before you more like a huge map than an actual city High up and away to the right, occupying what is geologically termed "a bench" is Camp Douglas, the big guns of which frown down upon the city, three miles off, to remind Brigham Young that though he is "boss" of the Saints, Uncle Sam is the bigger boss of both saints and sinners

A SOUTHERN ELECTION —The N Y Evening Post says

Whoever may object to the proposition of President Lincoln to re constitute any State one tenth of whose voters shall hold an election, it is certain the rebels have debarred themselves and their friends from that privilege Last month an election was held in different regiments of the Southern armies for rebel Congressmen to represent Kentucky at Richmond Less than one thousand men chose twelve Congressmen to save the affair from ridicule these thousand voted for the whole delegation If the President were to take this way to reconstitute State Governments he might find as many loyal men from almost every Southern State living in the North as refugees, to hold an election similar to this

CHARGES AGAINST ADMIRAL WILKES —Charges and specifications have been filed by Secretary Welles against Admiral Wilkes, for disobedience of orders in taking and keeping the Vanderbilt for his flag ship when he knew that she was ordered on special service in South America in refusing to send the Oneida and Cuyler to [illegible], for insubordinate conduct in going off with the Vanderbilt to Laguayra when he should have remained about the Bahamas cruising for rebel privateers, for disrespectful language to his superior officer in writing an insubordinate and saucy letter to Secretary Welles for disobedience of the Navy regulations forbidding publication of official communications in giving a N Y paper a copy of the above letter, and procuring it to be published therein and conduct unbecoming an officer, in refusing to tell the Department how old he was

FORWARD YOUTH —The army correspondent of the Hilton Head relates an incident of camp life, showing the precocity of a youth of sixteen, the son of a General, on a visit to his father on the field On one occasion when the General's purse was getting low he remarked that he would be obliged to draw on his banker for more money "How much do you want father?" said the boy. "I think I shall send for a couple of hundred," replied the General "Why, father," said the son quietly, "I can let you have that amount" "You can! let me have it" exclaimed the General in surprise "where did you get so much money?" "I won it playing poker with your staff sir," replied the hopeful youth It is needless to say that the [illegible] train next morning bore the gay young gambolier' toward his home

COPPERHEAD MASS MEETING AT HILLSBORO —The Copperheads of Washington county met in mass meeting in the court house at Hillsboro on Saturday April 2d, for the purpose of electing two delegates to the Copperhead Convention to be held at Albany The meeting was called to order by electing Mr Ford chairman and S V Knox Secretary It endorsed the traitorous resolutions and platform of the Yamhill Copperhead Convention Several speeches were made, all in opposition to the Government, and Abraham Lincoln in particular for prosecuting the war against the dear brethren of the South, and lauding [illegible] as a model of democracy S V Knox and Thomas Hoover were elected delegates to Albany and the meeting adjourned well pleased with its day's labor

UNION MEETING AT SUBLIMITY, MARION COUNTY —The friends of the Union met at Sublimity on Tuesday, April 6th, for the purpose of organizing a Union Club After a short telling speech by J Kernoyer, and the adoption of suitable resolutions expressive of the sense of the meeting, the following officers were chosen J Kernoyer President, Wm Porter Vice President, J Jones Secretary L M Geoff Treasurer While engaged signing our names, Professors Crawford and Beach, followed by the students of Sublimity College filed into the building and treated us to a series of patriotic songs At the close of our exercises Mr Editor, if you could have dropped in and heard these youthful voices catch up the soul inspiring words "Rally Round the Flag Boys" we apprehend you would have felt just right Professor Crawford accompanied the singing with instrumental music

The ladies were invited to lend us their names and influence after which the meeting adjourned to meet again in two weeks

CHEAP CATTLE —A letter from Santa Barbara county received by a gentleman in this city states that 5,000 head of cattle were sold in that county at auction a few days since, at 37½ cents each When cattle even in the poorest condition can be bought at such prices as they are being offered at all over the State, it is hard to understand why beef should be held at such exorbitant rates in the markets of San Francisco One thing is certain viz the farmers and ranchmen who raise the beef get but a trifling price for it, on foot as compared with what it retails at in the markets, at any time —Alta

THIEVING —It is pretty generally known that there exists in this city at the present time an organized gang of thieves, who are prepared for doing up their business on a scientific principle but so far they have had little to do, giving the officers no chance for a clue by which to ferret them out of their dens On last Wednesday night, however, they made a raid in the vicinity of the corner of Yamhill and Second streets first entering the premises of J F McCoy, but finding nothing of value they left, having ransacked every thing unmolested They next attempted to enter the residence of J W Sutton, and had they proceeded a few steps farther in this scheme one of them at least would undoubtedly have been recognized the next morning which fact they probably felt symptoms of and decamped from fear The next place visited was the dwelling of J M Strowbridge, which was entered without much difficulty by the aid of implements, and the work of thoroughly searching the premises was not interfered with until the inmates awoke Three ladies and two children happened to be all that were in the house and they were in the second story, but finding the premises invaded alarm was given and the robbers fled In all of their perambulations it does not appear that the thieves enriched themselves much that night, and it may be it was intended only as a feeler, to decide whether the popular pulse of Portland will stand it to be robbed or not It may be an easy matter to break into some houses, but we think precaution should be taken by our citizens generally to give the light fingered gentry a warm reception when they come

IMPROVEMENTS —We have had occasion recently, to make two or three public notices of the extent and variety of the improvements rapidly being made in this city at the present time Not a week elapses without furnishing further material for such comment Mr E. M Burton has recently furnished a draft for a very fine dwelling two stories high with a basement, to be built for Dr Weatherford, at the corner of Salmon and Second streets When completed this building will materially improve that part of the city Another nice improvement is going on near Washington street on Sixth where a new dwelling is being constructed But were we to attempt to locate all the fine private houses now building we should find our space so taken up that we could speak of nothing else The character of these improvements is not confined to private residences—there are a great many stores, shops and other public places, either undergoing repairs or in course of erection, that will be a credit to the city The Monitor Hotel has been reduced to rubbish to give place to a larger and more substantial edifice for the same purposes These gratifying evidences of the prospects and prosperity of Portland, are but a portion of what may be seen going on around us continually The mason, the plasterer and the carpenter are all kept busy.

THEATRE —This evening will be the last but one of the theatrical season The thrilling tragedy of the "Pirate of the Isles" will be performed, Mrs Hayne appearing as Imogene, and G B Waldron as Bertram Not many years since a fearful interest was given to the denouement of this play, at its representation in Natchez Mississippi The actor a young man who had performed the part with exceeding spirit, on coming to the last lines—

I died no felon's death—
A warrior's weapon freed a warrior's soul

Gave reality to the scene by stabbing himself and falling dead upon the stage

THE LIBRARY —We are requested to state that the Library committee in making up the lists of papers, books, etc, to be procured, would be happy to receive suggestions and lists from any of the friends of the Association The committee consists of Messrs Strong Shattuck and Schuyler

FROM MARYSVILLE —Among the numerous arrivals in the city yesterday, of persons who are traveling to our new mines, were two coach loads of passengers from Marysville, California They report hundreds more on the way If Boise gets the benefit of all the emigration this year we don't believe the "basin" will hold them all

FIRE PLUG —Hose was attached to the fire plug, yesterday, at the corner of Washington and First streets, and it was found to be a pretty good institution, throwing a steam far enough to be of considerable service, in case of a fire in that vicinity

SALE OF BRICK —Mr. Benj Thornally, of this city, has sold to Government 100,000 brick to be used in the construction of defences at the mouth of the Columbia river The first installment was laid on the dock yesterday for shipment by the schooner Ellen

STOCK —The steamer Julia, on the last trip to the Cascades, took 428 head of stock The Rescue made a trip yesterday, taking what she could carry, as the Julia had laid by to receive some repairs to her machinery.

FELL OVER —A huge pile of slab-wood corded up on the sidewalk between Front and First streets on Taylor, fell over with a crash last evening It evidently had no business there, and strangely undertook to leave

OIL PAINTING —Mr J F Brink, has just finished a fine oil painting "Venus Rising from the Sea" a copy of a picture in the gallery of Prince Wolkonski The copy is on exhibition at Sutton's Shooting Gallery, and will be up at a raffle on the 23d inst.

A DANCIST.—At a dancing match at Chicago, recently, a buxom Dutch girl danced nine hours constantly, when her partner acknowledged himself fairly beaten and very tired. The damsel then took six glasses of lager and quietly went to breakfast.

IS DANCING A HEALTHY AND HARMLESS RECREATION?—We contend that it is innocent and healthy, when not indulged in to excess, and we recommend all ... ; the dancers to patronize Houston Hastings & Co., the celebrated Clothiers, of Montgomery street San Francisco, for they have the finest articles used in Ball Rooms and Parties—all the little matters of wear that beaux delight to appear in before the eyes of their Lady Loves.

SUITABLE.—Benkert's pump sole, Philadelphia made boots are just the thing. Shelby has received a new supply by this steamer. All who desire an elegant boot are advised to call soon.

Turn-Verein.—A Special Meeting of the Turn Verein will be held at the Turn Verein Hall this evening, at 8 o'clock. A full attendance is desired.

MARKET REPORT AND REVIEW

Friday morning April 15th

Our remarks last week relative to the condition of the Markets will apply to the present time notwithstanding the pleasant weather would seem to induce farmers to bring in more produce. The scarcity of articles arriving has a tendency to cause offerings to be light, and in some cases insufficient to supply demand. The principal amount of produce received during the week was a cargo of potatoes and bacon, brought by the schooner Ellen, from Tillamook. The potatoes sold for 30 cts per bushel, delivered on board, and the bacon sold at 15½@16.

The prices of grain seem to be well sustained, as holders are unwilling to sell, thinking that prices must advance farther, and prefer to run the risk, even if they should take a less price eventually by so doing.

HOSTETTER'S
CELEBRATED

CONCLUSIVE PROOF
OF THE EFFICACY OF
HOSTETTER'S
STOMACH BITTERS!

PROTECTIVE MEDICATION

Great Truths
—IN—
SMALL COMPASS:

WHAT THE BITTERS ARE.

A pure, delightful Vegetable Balm
To cheer the spirits and the nerves to calm,
Protect the system from Miasma's bane,
Rouse torpid Nature and the strength sustain.

THEIR INGREDIENTS.

Juices of plants, roots, barks, of virtues rare,
By chemic art expressed with patient care,
And the mild spirit of the soundest rye—
Purest of all diffusive stimuli

RESULTS OF THEIR USE.

Digestion rallies, appetite revives,
The food assimilates, the patient thrives,
Dyspepsia vanishes, with all its throes,
And peaceful sleep succeeds disturbed repose

EFFECTS ON THE LIVER.

The bilious sufferer, languid, listless, pale,
Physicked for years perhaps without avail,
Finds in the BITTERS all he asks or needs,
And lives to smile at doctors and their creeds.

OPERATION ON THE BOWELS.

Relaxed constricted, or the seat of pain,
These organs should not, for one day, remain
The cause of each extreme you can expel—
The BITTERS tone and regulate as well.

EFFECT ON THE DEBILITATED.

The flaccid muscles firmness soon acquire,
The frame gains flesh, the eye resumes its fire,
Strength to the limbs, hope to the heart returns,
Till staff and crutch the convalescent spurns

BROKEN CONSTITUTION.

The constitution tried by pain or care,
Or wild indulgence, is not repair ,
The genial Tonic, as the healthful dews
Quickens parched herbs, its wasted power renews.

CHILLS AND FEVER.

Damp, cold, exposure to the malarious fog,
Brings on of ills a fearful catalogue,
But intermittents whatso'er their kind,
HOSTETTER'S BITTERS scatter to the wind

SICK HEADACHE.

This torment dire, that all enjoyment kills,
Yields not to pungent scents or drastic pills,
'Tis from the stomach that it takes its rise,
Tone with the BITTERS and the anguish flies.

WANT OF APPETITE.

Without due nourishment life's pulses wane,
The blood grows thin and dullness clouds the brain,
But this Elixir sets the system right,
And "Good Digestion waits on Appetite"

THE BITTERS AFTER SICKNESS.

Exhausting fever leaves its victim low,
And, unassisted Health's return is slow,
Then with the Bitters weakened Nature aid,
For in each drop vitality's conveyed

AS A GENERAL PREVENTIVE.

By night and day on river, sea or land,
In instant peril of disease we stand,
But its dread arrows harmless seem to glide
Past all with this invigorant fortified

IMPURE WATER, ETC.

Roam through the world, through every climate range,
Here is the antidote 'gainst every change,
Water impure it tempers and insures
Men in all hardships to all temperatures

SEA SICKNESS

Who has not felt how feebly words essay
The qualms one feels on shipboard to portray?
Dread them no more defy old Neptune's power,
The Bitters cure the nausea in an hour

AN UNADULTERATED TONIC.

Of all the liquors borne across the sea
Not one—mark that—from acrid poison's free,
These Bitters stand 'mid stimulants alone,
Powerless to irritate, though prompt to tone

A MILD APERIENT.

Remember, too, aperient root and herb,
Are blent with those that relaxation curb
In this rare mixture give this fact due weight,
That while the Bitters tone they regulate

A GENTLE CORRECTIVE.

If on the stomach food to acid turns,
And pungent gas the inner membrane burns,
This grand corrective soon removes the bane,
And from the heartburn frees the inner man.

A SAFE AND GENTLE ANODYNE

Why not with all the opiates dispense,
That snake the nerves and paralyze the sense,
When these rare BITTERS soothe both mind and frame
Inviting both to yield to slumbers claim?

THE WORLD'S OPINION

Touching the BITTERS this grand fact is clear,
Their fame fills all the Western Hemisphere
Known in all lands, washed by its oceans twain,
HEALTH, HOPE and VIGOR, follow in their train!

AVOID COUNTERFEITS.

HOSTETTER'S BITTERS share the common fate
Of all things good Impostors imitate,
Of these beware Discreetly use your eyes;
From honest houses purchase your supplies.

CAUTION!

The Government Endorsement.

In order to guard against the impositions, the public are requested to take especial note of the beautifully engraved proprietary stamp through which the Government of the United States identically authenticates every bottle of HOSTETTER'S BITTERS. This shield thrown by the Government over the proprietors and the public for their joint protection is placed conspicuously across the cork and over the neck of each bottle, and can not fail to strike the eye of the most casual observer. Nothing that purports to be HOSTETTER'S BITTERS can be genuine unless the stamp is there.

It is also proper to state that the BITTERS are sold exclusively in glass and never under any circumstance by the gallon or the barrel. Impostors and imitators are abroad and the only safeguard the public have against them is to see that the Bitters they buy bear the engraved label and note of hand of Messrs HOSTETTER & SMITH, and the stamp above mentioned

The Miser's Bequest.

The hour hand of Philip Acre's old fashioned silver watch was pointing to the figure eight—the snug red curtains shut out the rain and darkness of the March night, and the fire snapped and crackled behind the red hot bar of the little grate in a most cosy and comfortable sort of way, casting a rosy shine into the thoughtful brown eyes that were tracing castles and coronets in the burning coals.

For Philip Acre was, for once, indulging himself in the dangerous fascinations of a day dream.

"If I were only rich!" he pondered to himself. "Ah, if. Then good-bye to all those musty old law-books; good bye to the mended boots and thrice turned coats, and all the ways and means that turn a man's life into wretched bondage! Wouldn't I revel in new books and delicious paintings and high stepping horses? Wouldn't I buy a set of jewels for Edith—not pale pearls or sickly emeralds, but diamonds to blaze like links of fire upon her loyal throat? Wouldn't I—what nonsense I'm talking, though!" he cried suddenly rousing himself. "Phil Acre, hold your confounded tongue! I did suppose you were a fellow of more sense! Here you are, neither rich nor distinguished, but a simple law student, while Edith Wyllis is as far above your moon-struck aspirations as the Queen of night herself! She loves me though—she will wait—and the time may one day come! If only Dr. Wyllis were not so distrustful of a fellow! However, I must learn to prove myself worthy of the sweetest prize that ever—Halloo! come in there, whoever you are."

It was only the serving maid of the establishment carrying a letter in the corner of her apron, between her finger and thumb.

"Please, sir, the postman just left it—two cents to pay."

"Here are your two coppers then, Katy—a pretty fair equivalent for any letter I may receive. Now; then" he added as the door closed behind Katy's substantial back, "let's see what my unknown correspondent has to say. A black seal, eh? Not having any relations to lose, I am not alarmed at the prognostic!"

He broke the seal, and glanced leisurely over the short, business-like communication contained within, with a face that varied from incredulous surprise to sudden gladness.

"Am I dreaming?" he murmured to himself as if to insure complete possession of his sense. "No, I'm wide awake and in my right mind; it is no delusion, no part of my waking visions! But who would ever suppose that old Theron Mortimer, whom I havn't seen since I was a boy of sixteen, and picked him out of the river half dead between cramp and fright, would die and leave me all his money. Why, I'm not even the shadow of a relation; but then, I never heard that the old man had kith or kin, so I can't imagine any harm in taking advantage of his odd freak! Rich—am I really to be rich? Oh, Edith! Edith!

He clasped both hands over his eyes, sick and giddy with the thought that the loved, far-off star of his adoration would be brought near to him at least by the magnet of gold.—All those years of heartless waiting were to be bridged over by the strange old miser's bequest; he might claim Edith now!

How full of heart sunshine were the weeks that flitted over the head of the accepted lover—brightened by Edith's love! There was told one alloying shadow—the most imperceptible touch of disgust and suspicion with which stern old Dr. Wallis regarded his future son-in-law. Ah! he feared to trust his only child to the keeping of any man who had not been proved in the fiery furnace of trial.

It was precisely a week before the wedding and the soft lights veiled by shades of ground glass were just lighted in Dr. Wyllis' drawing-room where Edith sat among her white roses and heliotrope, working on a bit of cambric ruffling, and singing to herself. She was a slender, beautiful girl, with violet gray eyes, a high, blue-veined forehead, and glossy abundant curls of that kind old painters love to portray.

"I wonder if Mortimer Place is so very lovely," she said to a silver-haired lady who sat opposite. "Philip is going to take me there, when we return from our wedding tour, aunty; he says it is the sweetest spot a poet's fancy could devise, with fountains and shrubberries and green delicious copses! Oh! shall we not be happy there?"

She started up with a bright, sudden blush; for, even while the words were trembling on her lip, Philip Acre came into the room, his handsome face looking a little troubled, yet cheerful withal. Mrs. Wyllis, with an arch nod at her niece, disappeared into the perfumed perspective of the conservatory, leaving the lovers to themselves.

"You are looking grave, Phillip," said Edith as he bent over and kissed her cheek.

"I am feeling so; darling. I have a very unpleasant disclosure to make to-night—our marriage must be postponed indefinitely.

"Phillip! for what reason?"

"To enable me to labor dilligently at my profession to realize sufficient means to support you, dearest, in a manner satisfactory to your father's expectations and my own sincere wishes."

"But, Philip, I thought "

"You thought me the heir of Theron Mortimer's wealth? So I was, Edith, a few hours since, but I have relinquished all claim to it now. When I accepted the bequest, I was under the the impression that no living heir existed. I learned to-day that a distant cousin—a woman—is alive, although my lawyer tells me, in ignorance of her relationship to Theron Mortimer. Of course, I shall transfer all the property to her."

"But, Phillip, the will has made it legally yours."

"Legally, it is; could I reconcile it to my ideas of truth and honor to avail myself of old Mortimer's fanciful freak, at this woman's expense, I might take the hoarded wealth, but I should never respect myself again, could I dream of legally defrauding the rightful heir. Nay, dearest, I may lose name and wealth, but I would rather die than suffer a single stain on my honor as a Christian man."

"You have done right, Philip," said Edith, with sparkling eyes. "We will wait, and hope on, happy in loving one another more dearly than ever. But who is she? what is her name?"

"That's just what I didn't stop to inquire. I will write again to my lawyer to ask these questions and to direct that a deed of conveyance be instantly made out, and then, darling "

His lips quivered a moment, yet he manfully completed the bitter sentence:

"Then I will begin the battle of life over again."

And Edith's loving eyes told him what she thought of his noble self-abnegation—a sweet testimonial!

"Hem!" said Dr. Wyllis, polishing his eye-glasses magesterially with his handkerchief "I didn't suppose the young man had so much stamina about him—an honorable thing to do. Edith, I have never felt exactly certain about Phil. Acre's being worthy of you before "

"Papa!"

"But my mind is made up now. When is he coming again?"

"This evening, sir," faltered Edith, the violet eyes softly dropping.

"Tell him, Edith, that he may have you next Wednesday, just the same as ever! And as for the low practising—why there's time for that, afterwards. Child, don't strangle me with your kisses—keep them for Phil."

He looked after his daughter with eyes that were strangely dim.

"Tried, and not found wanting!" he muttered indistinctly.

The perfume of orange blossoms had died away, the glimmer of pearls and satin had been hidden in velvet caskets and traveling trunks—and Mr. and Mrs. Acre, old married people of full a week's duration, were driving along the shores of the Hudson in the amber glow of a glorious June sunset.

"Hallo; which way is Thomas going?" said Phillip, leaning from the window, as the carriage turned out of the shore road.

"I told him the road to take, Phil!" said Edith, with bright, sparkling eyes. "Let me have my own way, just for once. We are going to our new home."

"Are we?" said Phil, with a comical grimace.

"Wait until you see, sir," said Mrs. Acre, pursing up her little rose-bud of a mouth.—And Phillip "waited" dutcously.

"Where are we?" he asked, in astonishment, when the carriage drove up in front of a stately pillared portico, which seemed not entirely unfamiliar to him. Surely this is Mortimer Place. "I shouldn't be surprised if it was," said Dr. Wyllis, emerging from the doorway. "Walk in, my boy—come Edith. Well, how do you like the looks of your new house?"

"Our new house?" repeated Phillip. "I do not understand you, sir."

"Why, I mean that your little wife yonder, is the sole surviving relative of Theron Mortimer, although she never knew it until this morning. Her mother was old Mortimer's cousin, but some absurd quarrel had caused a total cessation of intercourse between the two branches of the family. I was aware of the facts all the time, but I wasn't sorry to avail myself of the opportunity of seeing what kind of stuff you were made of, Phil. And now, as the deed of conveyance isn't made out yet, I don't suppose your lawyer will trouble himself about it. The heiress won't quarrel with you about it, I'll be bound."

Phillip Acre's cheek flushed and then grew pale with strong, hidden emotion, as he looked at his fair wife, standing beside him, the sunset turning her bright hair to coils of shining gold, and thought how unerringly the hand of Providence had straightened out the tangled web of his destiny.

Out of darkness had come light.

Negro Equality Illustrated.—Quite recently at a Louisville boarding-house, a lady of Northern birth and education but a bitter rebel, was reading to a mixed company an absurd account of some Northern women landing at Hilton Head, South Carolina, and embracing a negress, calling her "sister," &c. The lady was triumphantly vindictive, and exclaimed to the captain,—

"What do you think of that? Isn't that a beautiful specimen of your negro equality?"

The captain was annoyed, and hardly knew what to say. He said nothing, in fact, but turned and walked to the window. Glancing out, he saw on the opposite side walk a group of negroes enjoying themselves in the sun as only negroes can. They were all sizes and all shades of color,—some almost white. Smiling at the thought that it was now his turn, he said to the rebel lady,—

"Will you step to the window a moment?"

"Certainly," [suiting the act to the word.]

"Look there, do you see that?"

"See what, sir?"

"Why, that black-yellow-white group on the other side?"

"Certainly, I do. What is there strange about it?"

"Ah, nothing, I suppose; only one would think there must have been considerable negry quality practiced by the white people of the South, as well as those of the North."

The lady "retired" and thereafter was somewhat less insulting in her demonsteations.

Iron and Steel.—Steel is iron passed through a process called cementation, the object of which is to impregnate it with carbon. Carbon exists more abundantly in charcoal than in any other fusible substance, and the smoke that goes up from a charcoal forge is carbon in a fluid state. Now, if you can manage to confine that smoke, and put a piece of iron into it for several days, and beat the iron at the same time, it will become steel. Heating the iron opens its pores, so that the smoke of carbon can enter into it. The furnace for this purpose is a conical building of brick, in the middle of which are two troughs of brick or stone, which hold about four tons of bar iron. At the bottom is a large grate for the fire. A layer of charcoal is put at the bottom of the troughs, then a layer of bar-iron, and so on, alternately, until the troughs are full. They are then covered over with clay, to keep out the air, which, if admitted, would prevent the cementation. Fire is then communicated to the wood and coal with which the furnace is filled, and continued until the conversion of iron into steel is completed, which generally happens in about eight or ten days. This is known by the blisters on the bars, which the workmen occasionally draw out in order to determine. When the conversion is completed the fire is then let go out, and the bars remain in the furnace about eight days more to cool. The bars of steel are then taken out, and either sold as blistered steel or drawn to a convenient size, when it is called tilted steel. German steel is made out of this blistered steel, by breaking the bars into short pieces and welding them together, drawing them down to a proper size for use.—N. Y. Sunday Times.

A Rebel Woman Nonplussed.—Last winter a forage train went out of Nashville, and two or three of the Michigan soldiers guarding it, called at a house for dinner. The woman, ready to take their money and get their favor, at once prepared it. While they were eating, she thought it a favorable moment for conversation, and propounded the usual questions of Secessia:—

"What in the world did all you people come down here to fight us for?"

"The fact is, madam," quickly answered one of her guests, dropping his knife and fork, leaning back in his chair and looking her calmly in the face, "we understood your folks were going to free your negroes and send them up North, and we don't want them and won't have them. So we've come down here to put a stop to it."

The old lady was silenced by this spiking of her guns.

Such a nice little letter I am, do you see, (Grace)
That at dinner I'm foremost, as well as at tea.
Omit my first letter, then I may be run, (grace)
While on me whole fortunes can be lost or won.
Now, what is quite strange by a change in my station,
I often make gray the best man in the nation, (care)
To the young I am rarely known to do harm,
While I am easily changed into part of alarm. (acre)
Omit one more letter, and once more I suppose,
I'm a part of your head, not far from your nose. (car)
Call back the first letter you have cast away,
I am what canny Scotchmen for riches would say. (gear)

Taking an enemy into one's mouth to steal away his brains, isn't so bad as swindling a friend. You had better take in an enemy than take in a friend.

The rebels have made a chemical mixture which they call a "sneezing compound," which they inject into hiding places on board blockade runners, in order to discover any individual who may be surreptitiously attempting to leave Jeff. Davis' dominion.

There will be some other remedy than a "sneezing compound" to keep Jeff. from the di(o)ominion that awaits him.

Dean Swift, having dined with a rich miser, pronounced the following grace after dinner:

"Thanks for this miracle! it is no less
Than finding manna in the wilderness.
In midst of famine we have found relief,
And seen the wonders of a chine of beef!
Chimneys have smoked that never smoked before;
And we have dined where we shall dine no more."

Sale of Town Lots in Port Angeles.

THE town-site of Port Angeles, situated in the Straits of Juan de Fuca, in townships 30 and 31 N of range 6 West, Willamette Meridian, in Washington Territory, having been reserved by the President of the United States, under the provisions of an Act of Congress, approved March 3d, 1863, entitled, "An Act for Increasing the Revenue by Reservation and sale of Town-sites on Public Lands," and a portion of said town-site having been surveyed into urban and suburban lots in pursuance of the provisions of said Act, public notice is hereby given that said urban, and suburban lots will be offered for sale at public outcry, to the highest bidder, by the Register and Receiver of the Land Office for the Olympia District, Wednesday, the 4th day of May, 1864, commencing at 10 o'clock A. M.; the sale to take place at the door of the Custom-House in Port Angeles, and continued from day to day between the same hours, till all the lots are offered. Any person having made bona fide settlement and improvements which are embraced within the boundaries of any lot prior to the 1st of May, 1864, upon furnishing the necessary proof of the fact to the Register and Receiver, on or before the day of sale, shall have the right—restricted to one lot—to bid for and purchase the same at the appraised value thereof; but any party who may challenge the bid on the ground that the settlement and improvement are not bona fide, shall have the privilege to compete with such settler in bidding, and if the highest bidder, the bid of the contestant will be admitted to record upon his tendering in payment the sum bid by him, the contest to be determined after the close of the sale.

Instructions as to the mode of conducting the sale and disposing of conflicts will be timely placed in the hands of the Register and Receiver.

Plats of the town-site of Port Angeles will be open to inspection of the public, at the office of the Register and Receiver at Olympia, and at the office of the Collector of Customs at Port Angeles, after the 1st day of March, 1864.

Land Office at Olympia, W. T., March 19th, 1864.
